

Free Webinar: An Innovative Approach to Addressing Mental Health Situations (Part I of III)

Thursday, October 9 at 11:00 AM (Arizona time)

In collaboration with the Bureau of Justice Statistics, the National Criminal Justice Association, and the Arizona Criminal Justice Commission, the Justice Clearinghouse is sponsoring a no-cost webinar to all public safety stakeholders on effective strategies to investigate, respond to, and approach individuals with mental health issues on Thursday, October 9 at 11am Arizona Time.

Today's public safety practitioners are becoming increasingly aware that they need to use a special operational approach when encountering an individual with known mental health issues. Public safety officials are constantly seeking new, innovative ways to improve their interaction to ensure everyone remains safe and secure. This webinar will examine an effective, comprehensive strategy that the State of Arizona and local Arizona law enforcement agencies have been taking to address and respond to mental health issues from both a funding and operational perspective.

This non-commercial webinar includes highly respected subject matter experts in the field, including:

- Pat Nelson, Arizona Criminal Justice Commission, Program Manager, CJ Systems Improvement;
- Sergeant Jason Winsky of the Mental Health Investigative Support Team, Tucson Police Department; and
- Sergeant Terry Staten, Pima County (AZ) Sheriff's Office
